Communicating without words

Being able to understand and use nonverbal language is essential for developing and maintaining healthy, productive relationships

Communicating without words

- Non Verbal Communication is the unspoken communication that goes on in every Face-to-Face encounter with another human being.
- It is recognized as the route to discover what the other side wants, without them ever saying it, like a secret way into their soul.
- It stands for the innermost, instinctual form of human communication.

Communicating without words

- Communication researcher Mehrabian found that only 7% of a message's effect are carried by words; listeners receive the other 93% through non-verbal means.
- Birdwhistell suggested that spoken words account for not more than 30-35% of all our social interactions.
- Almost 65 percent of the social meaning of the messages we send to others are communicated non-verbally.

Communication of social meaning

Characteristics of Nonverbal Communication: Cues and contexts

- Nonverbal communication—messages/responses not expressed in words
- Mixed message—occurs when words and actions contradict each other

Functions of Nonverbal Communication

- Message reinforcement or Complementation
- Message negation
- Message substitution
- Message accentuation or intensification
- Message regulation

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication

Nonverbal message categories:

1. Body language or Kinesics
2. Clothing and Artifactual communication
3. Voice or Paralanguage
4. Space and distance, or Proxemic factors
5. Color
6. Time, or Chronemics
7. Touch, or Haptics
8. Smell, or Olfactics

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication (contd.)

1. Body Language: Kinesics

- Kinesics—study of human body motion or body language
- Facial expressions
 - Facial management techniques—means we use to control the expressions we reveal to others
- Eyebrows and forehead
 - Civil inattention—polite ignoring of others so as not to infringe on their privacy

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication (contd.)

2. Clothing and artifacts

- Artifactual Communication—use of personal adornments
- Artifactual communication, is an integral part of the nonverbal package.
- It includes the use of personal adornments such as clothing, jewellery, makeup, hairstyles, and beards.
- People are apt to make inferences about us based on the way we dress.

(contd.)

3. Voice: Paralanguage

- Paralanguage—vocal cues that accompany spoken language
- Pitch—highness or lowness of the voice
- Habitual pitch—characteristic pitch one uses
- Volume—degree of loudness
- Rate—speaking speed
- Non-fluencies—meaningless sounds or phrases which disrupt the flow of speech
- Silence—absence of paralinguistic and verbal cues

The Exam | Mr. Bean Official

NPTEL

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication (contd.)

4. Space and distance: Proxemic and environmental Factors

- Proxemics—the study of the use of space

Proxemic cues, including the treatment of space and territory influence interaction and help define the communication experience.

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication (contd.)

Proxemics

- Distances—Intimate, Personal, Social, and Public
 - Edward Hall says there are four different distances that we keep between ourselves and other people:

Intimate distance - 0 to 18 inches;

Personal distance - 18 inches to 4 feet;

Social distance - 4 to 12 feet; and

Public distance - 12 feet to the limit of sight.

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication (contd.)

Based on the perceived permanence of the physical Space, Researchers divide environmental Spaces into three categories: Informal, Semi-fixed-feature, and Fixed feature

- Informal space —highly mobile and can be quickly changed
- Semi-fixed-feature space —the use of objects to create distance
- Fixed-feature space —contains relatively permanent objects

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication (contd.)

- Territoriality and personal space
- Territoriality is an important concept in communication: typically, human beings stake out space or territory.
- Territoriality describes the need to demonstrate a possessive or ownership relationship to space. Markers are items used to reserve one's space and set boundaries that help identify the space as belonging to someone.

CONCEPTS COVERED

- Aspects of Nonverbal Communication
- Gender and Nonverbal behavior: Masculine and Feminine styles
- Diversity and Nonverbal behavior: Cultural patterns
- Technology and Nonverbal Communication
- Assessing your effectiveness as a Nonverbal communicator
- Summary

Non-Verbal Communication: Introduction

(1 of 2)

- Non -Verbal Communication is the message or response not expressed or sent in words - hints , suggestions , indications.
- Actions speak louder than words.
- “What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say” - Ralph Waldo Emerson
- There is a distinction between the meanings we ‘give’ in words and the meanings we ‘give – off ’ in Non Verbal signals.

Non-Verbal Communication: Introduction

(2 of 2)

- Non Verbal signals are unconscious parts of our behavior which is a deeply rooted part in our entire makeup.
- In fact, it is the most basic part of our personality.
- Behavior has no opposite, i.e. there is no such thing as non-behavior.

Aspects of Nonverbal Communication

Nonverbal message categories:

1. Body language or Kinesics
2. Clothing and Artifactual communication
3. Voice or Paralanguage

- 6. Time: Communicative value of Chronemics
 - Chronemics— study of time use
- 7. Touch: Haptics
 - Haptics— study of the use of touch
- 8. Smell: Olfactics
 - Olfactics - study of the use of smell

Gender and Nonverbal behavior: Masculine and Feminine styles

- The ways men and women use nonverbal cues reflects societal practices.
- Visual dominance—measure calculated by comparing the percentage of looking while speaking with the percentage of looking while listening

Diversity and Nonverbal behavior: Cultural patterns

- To a large degree, people modify their use of nonverbal cues depending on the culture they belong to or identify with.
- Contact cultures—cultures that promote interaction and encourage displays of warmth, closeness, and availability
- Low-contact cultures—cultures that maintain more distance when interacting

Technology and Nonverbal Communication

- Nonverbal communication is also affected by whether communication is occurring on- or off- line.
- Emoticons—symbols that replace nonverbal cues during machine-assisted communication

Assessing your effectiveness as a Nonverbal Communicator

- Examine the environment
- Observe the communicators
- Observe body language
- Listen for vocal cues
- Observe touching

Tips to improve Non-Verbal Communication

- Positive Non Verbal behavior improves your non-verbal communication effectiveness.
- You can improve your effectiveness as a non-verbal communicator by observing and analyzing both the physical environment of interactions and the body language, appearance, gestures, vocal cues, eye contact, and touching behavior of the participants.
- Inculcate positive Body Sport.

Why is communicating across cultures important today?

- Technological advances have made workplaces more global
- Understanding those who buy and use a company's products or services helps you design ones that fit your customers' needs
- Successful communication improves productivity and creates a comfortable workplace
- Communicating with those from other cultures enriches your business and personal life.

Problems and Solutions

1. Problems of Cultural Differences
2. Problems of Language
3. Some Solutions for Improved Communication

1. Problems of Cultural differences

- Body positions and movement
- Attitudes toward factors of human relationships
- Effects on workplace communication techniques

2. Body positions and Movement

- Body Parts
- Gestures
- Eye Contact
- Handshaking and Touching

Some Gesture differences

Gesture	Meaning 1	Meaning 2
Hand up, palm out, wrist stiff, back and forth motion	Good-bye (America)	No (Europe)
Raised hand with index finger extended, head high	Come here (America)	Rude to point a finger (Japan)
Raised hand, fingers in "V" position	Victory or peace (with palm out) (America)	Double, sexual, insulting (with palm in) (England)
Thumbs up	Fine, Good going, Everything is okay (America)	Strong, sexual, insulting (Nigeria and Australia)
Vertical horns	Hook 'em Horns (Texas)	Your spouse is unfaithful (Italy) Good luck (Brazil and Venezuela)

Attitudes toward factors of human relationships

- Time
- Space
- Odors
- Frankness
- Intimacy of Relationships
- Values
- Expression of Emotions

Effects on Workplace Communication techniques

- American Communication techniques are not universally acceptable.
- American Communication techniques do work with all English-speaking people.
- Problems can be overcome by learning about other cultures

2. Problems of Language

- Lack of language equivalency
- Difficulties in using English
 1. Multiple meaning of words
 2. Two-word verbs
 3. Culturally derived words

NPTEL

Language Equivalency Examples

- No such word
 - The Japanese have several words to define fine shadings of dependence, obligations, and responsibility that are difficult to translate to English because our culture has not learned to experience them.
- No need for the word
 - Eskimos have many words for types of snow
- No equivalent grammatical form

Examples of Multiple Meanings

- run
- fast
- ring

NPTTEL

Substitutes for Two-word Verbs

Two-word Verb

cut up
keyed up
live down
put away shut out tie down
track down

Substitute

clown
excited, nervous remove, overcome kill prevent hold search

Avoid Culturally derived Words

- Slang expressions
- Shifted use (sports, computer, science)
- Idioms and colloquialisms

NPTEL

Some American Idioms to avoid

- cold turkey
- egg on
- goldfish bowl
- in a nutshell
- snow job
- stick in the mud
- through thick and thin
- tie the knot
- up a tree
- walk on air
- wheel and deal
- wolf in sheep's clothing

3. Suggestions for Communicating across Cultures successfully

- Talk or write as simply and clearly as possible
- Word questions carefully
 1. Avoid double questions
 2. Avoid yes/no questions
 3. Avoid negative questions
- Use continuous confirmation
 1. Use back translating when possible
 2. Use technology to assist with written and oral communication

Communicating in a Multicultural society and world

CONCEPTS COVERED

- Preparing to communicate across Cultures
- The cost of Cultural ignorance
- Defining Intercultural Communication
- Taking the demographic picture: diversity in focus

Communicating in a Multicultural society and world

CONCEPTS COVERED

- The Intercultural Communication imperative:
Reducing the strangeness of Strangers
- Technology and Intercultural Communication
- How to improve your ability to Communicate Inter-culturally
- Summary

Preparing to communicate across Cultures

- Effective communication and the ability to understand cultural differences that are too frequently deficient both in students and in educators
- Assess your ability to communicate effectively with persons from different cultures.
- Ours is an age of increased global contact and diversity. Consequently, assessing and developing an understanding of and sensitivity to cultural differences is an essential component in each of our communication repertoires.
- To the extent we are able to reduce cultural ignorance and enhance cultural awareness, we increase our personal preparedness to communicate effectively.

The cost of Cultural ignorance

- Diversity – the recognition and valuing of difference
- Multiculturalists – persons respectful of and engaged with people from distinctly different cultures
- Culturally confused—lack of understanding of cultural difference
- Cultural imperialism—expansion of dominion of one culture over another culture
- By taking steps to eliminate cultural misunderstandings, we also facilitate the development of more meaningful relationships between persons from different cultures whether these relationships occur face-to-face or online

Defining Intercultural Communication

1. Inter-cultural communication—interacting with individuals from different cultures
2. Inter-racial communication—interpreting and sharing meanings with individuals from different races
3. Inter-ethnic communication—interacting with individuals of different ethnic origins
4. Inter-national communication—communication between persons representing different nations
5. Intra-cultural communication – interaction with members of the same racial or ethnic group or co-culture as yours

Ethics and Communication: Seeing our culture through the eyes of others

- Cultural imperialism—expansion of dominion of one culture over another culture

To become more adept at communicating with persons who are culturally different from ourselves, we first need to understand the differences between the general culture and co-cultures, ethnocentrism and cultural relativism, and the melting pot philosophy and cultural pluralism.

- Culture—a system of knowledge, beliefs, values, customs, behaviors, and artifacts that are acquired, shared and used by members during daily living
- Co-cultures or subcultures—groups of persons who differ in some ethnic or sociological way from the parent culture

Cultures and Co-Cultures

- Marginalized group—a group whose members feel like outsiders
- Assimilation – the means by which co-culture members attempt to fit in with members of the dominant culture
- Accommodation—strategy of co-culture members who attempt to maintain their cultural identity even while they strive to establish relationships with members of the dominant culture
- Separation – the means co-culture members use to resist interaction with members of the dominant culture

Cross-Cultural Misadventures #1

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-mXQoug1Bns>

Cultures and Co-Cultures

- Members of co-cultures can practice passive, assertive, aggressive, or confrontational communication approaches

TABLE 2.1 Preferred Strategies and Communication Approaches of Marginalized Groups

Strategy	Communication Approach	Example
Separation	Passive	Lunching alone, living in an area with similar people
Accommodation	Assertive	Wearing a yarmulke to work, wearing a sari to a party
Assimilation	Aggressive/confrontational	Staging a protest

Culture guides Communication

- Ethnocentrism—tendency to see one's own culture as superior to all others
- Cultural relativism—acceptance of other cultural groups as equal in value to one's own

Taking the demographic picture: Diversity in focus

- Melting pot philosophy—view that different cultures should be assimilated into the dominant culture
- Cultural pluralism—adherence to the principle of cultural relativism

The Intercultural Communication imperative: Reduce the strangeness of strangers

Exploring Cultural differences

- Individualism versus Collectivism
 1. Individualistic cultures—cultures in which individual goals are stressed
 2. Collectivistic cultures—culture in which group goals are stressed

Exploring Cultural differences

- High context versus Low context
 1. High-context communication—tradition-bound communication system that depends on indirectness
 2. Low-context communication—system that encourages directness in communication

Exploring Cultural differences

- High power distance versus Low power distance
 1. High power distance cultures—cultures based on power differences in which subordinates defer to superiors
 2. Low power distance cultures—culture that believes that power should be used when legitimate

Exploring Cultural differences

- Masculine versus Feminine Cultures
 1. Masculine cultures—members value male aggressiveness, strength, and material symbols of success
 2. Feminine cultures—members value relationships, tenderness in members of both sexes and ensuring a high quality of life

- Interpreting cultural differences - learning to appreciate the differences between individualism and collectivism, high-context and low-context communication cultures, and high power distance and low power distance cultures.
- Identifying influences on cultural Identity
- Identifying the impact of stereotypes and prejudices

- Stereotypes – mental images; shortcuts that guide reactions
- Prejudices – a positive or negative prejudgement

Technology and Intercultural Communication

Virtual neighborhoods or communities—online, surrogate communities

- Digital divide – information gap

How to improve your ability to communicate inter-culturally

- Refrain from formulating expectations based solely on your own culture
- Recognize how faulty education can impede understanding
- Make a commitment to develop communication skills and abilities appropriate to life in a multicultural world

Summary

- To the extent we reduce cultural ignorance and enhance cultural awareness, we increase our personal preparedness to communicate effectively.
- Eliminating cultural misunderstandings also facilitates the development of more meaningful relations between persons from different cultures.
- Intercultural communication is the process of interpreting and sharing meanings with individuals from different cultures.

Summary (cont.)

- We need to understand differences between general culture and co-cultures, ethnocentrism and cultural relativism, and the melting pot philosophy and cultural pluralism to communicate.
- Interpreting cultural variations means learning to appreciate the differences between individualism and collectivism, high-context and low-context communication cultures and high power distance and low power distance cultures.
- The lessons taught by culture influence our communication style preferences.

Summary (cont.)

- Although the lessons taught by culture influence our communication style preferences, there are techniques we can use to reduce the strangeness of strangers, adding to the storehouse of knowledge that underscores our communication competence and, as a result, increasing our ability to handle the communication challenges of today and tomorrow
- For many of us the Internet is facilitating this task by helping to bring diversity and culture into our lives.

From the Jaws of Death....

(Activity 1)

Five guests at a village marriage party suddenly faint. They are taken to the only doctor in the area. She quickly and correctly diagnoses the problem as severe food poisoning. They will all die in the next twenty-five minutes unless they are given a shot of Vita-X. Unfortunately the doctor has just four vials of this drug, enough to save four lives. The nearest town is too far to get help from.

You are the village elders. Discuss and decide in the next ten minutes which of the five should be left to die. Your Mukhya will conduct the discussion.

Here is a description of the five caught in the jaws of death.

(Activity 1)

A. Mr Premanand Bhandari, 48 years.

He is the village teacher. He has taught about half the village including your children. He suffers from cancer. The doctors have given him six to nine months to live. He has four unmarried daughters. The eldest is getting married next week.

B. Ms Pushpa Sagar, 29 years.

She's a nurse at the government hospital about 30 km away. Most patients find her rather lazy and indifferent. She has an illegitimate child – a girl who has just started school. No one knows who the girl's father is.

(Activity 1)

C. Deepa Behn, 31 years.

Has been a widow for five years. No children. Driven out by her late husband's family, she lives all by herself. She is extremely popular in the whole village because instead of indulging in self-pity, she goes around and helps everyone. She regularly visits people who are old and sick, and cheers them up.

D. Peter

No one knows anything much about him, not even his surname. (He is a White foreigner. He had told his host that he was from the US.) He must be about 35. He is passing through the village. He has been collecting certain herbs. Some say he is doing research on herbal medicine; some say he is a spy. He certainly carries a camera around.

(Activity 1)

E. Anand Tiwari, 52 years.

He has a special herbal preparation that is very effective against snakebite. He is well known in the area because he has saved scores of lives in an around this village. He hasn't yet passed on the formula to anyone. His wife and three children left him after he raped their maid servant about ten years ago. No one likes him. The village puts up with him because of his usefulness.

M. You are the Mukhya of the panchayat.

You will conduct the discussion. Make sure that the discussion gets over and a clear decision is taken in ten minutes. You have no time to lose. You don't want all five to die while you go on debating who should be allowed to die.

On the Life and Times of a Successful Quadruped

1. Reading – Reetika Dasgupta
2. Correcting
3. Individual (loud) reading / Oral presentation
(without laughing) – Rajarshi Tribedi

On the Life and Times of a Successful Quadruped

Here is an essay on the cow; it was written by a (successful) candidate for UPSC examination in 1992. The Telegraph (Calcutta) got hold of it and published it unedited in the interests of posterity. It is gratefully reproduced here faithfully. Enjoy it; then see why it sounds so odd

On the Life and Times of a Successful Quadruped

The cow is a successful animal. Also he is quadruped and because he is female, he give milk, but will do so when he is got child. He is same like God, sacred to Hindus and useful to man. But he has got four legs together. Two are forward and two are afterwards.

His whole body can be utilised for use. More so the milk. What can it do? Various ghee, butter, cream, curd, why and the condensed milk and so farth. Also he is useful to cobbler, watermans, and mankind generally.

On the Life and Times of a Successful Quadruped

His motion is slow only because he is of aslitudinious species. Also his other motion is much useful to trees, plants as well as making flat cakes in hand and drying in sun.

Cow is the only animal that extracts his feeding after eating. Then, afterward she chew with his teeth whom are situated in the inside of the mouth. He is incessantly in the meadows on the grass.

His only attacking and defending organ is the horn, specially so when he is got child.

On the Life and Times of a Successful Quadruped

This is done by knowing his head whereby he causes the weapons to be paralleled to the ground of the earth and instantly proceed with great velocity forwards.

He has got tail also, but not like similar animals. It has hairs on the other end of the other side. This is done to frighten away the flies which alight on his cohoa body whreupon he gives hit with it.

Th palms of his feet are soft unto the touch. So the grassses heads would not get crushed. At night time have poses by giving down on the ground and he shouts his eyes like his relatives, the horse does not do so.

This is the Cow.

Verbal Communication

Task:

- A. Participants read the slide very quickly and count how many times the letter 'F' appears in that sentence. They jot the number down in their notebooks. They are advised NOT to shout the answer.
- B. Display the visual once again – this time without any time limit – once again, Participants count the number of 'F's.
- C. During the two chances given them, and in spite of hearing that some others had seen more 'F's, some Participants did not correctly count the number of 'F's.

(Activity 3)

Discussion:

The 'F's Participants had not seen are most likely to be those in the word, 'OF' which is repeated three times in the Slide. The reason why some don't notice those 'F's is that when people read for meaning they tend to concentrate on meaningful or 'content' words and ignore the small function words.

What the Instructor had asked the class to do was to count the number of 'F's. But the learners disregarded this instruction and went about the job the way they liked. The ultimate result is that they didn't see the six 'F's which had been displayed.
